DEMOCRATS BANQUET BRYAN

Five Hundred Partake of $3 Spread in Washington--Unanimous for Commoner's Nomination--In Notable Speech He Analyzes Roosevelt Policies.

Washington, Nov. 26. William J. Bryan was last night tendered a banquet and reception by "The United Democracy of the District of Columbia." Five hundred Democrats partook of the $3 dinner and more than double that number participated in the reception.

While the capacity of the Raleigh Hotel banquet hall placed a limit on the attendance, the "lid" was completely off to enthusiasm and the long speech of Mr. Bryan, like the half dozen shorter ones in his praise which preceded it, afforded opportunity for repeated and continued demonstrations of political accord and personal regard for the guest of honor.

Mr. Bryan utilized the occasion to set forth at length a closely reasoned analogy between the policies of President Roosevelt and those he believes should be advocated in the administration of the government. From this viewpoint Mr. Bryan's speech was regarded by the prominent democrats who heard it as a decidedly important and timely party deliverance. Mr. Bryan's analysis of President Roosevelt's present views was unique.

Four of President Roosevelt's policies were democratic and four of them were undemocratic, he said, while there were four other democratic policies which the president did not advocate. Railroad regulation; the enforcement of the laws against the trusts; an income tax and arbitration as the method of settling disputes between labor and capital were all advocated by the president Mr. Bryan said, but had been advocated by the democratic party long before the president took them up. As to none of them, he maintained, did the president have the support of republican party leaders. The four democratic doctrines the president will not endorse the speaker gave as trait reform, the election of senators by direct vote, the promise of ultimate independence to the Filipinos and the restriction of the use of the injunction in labor disputes.

The four undemocratic doctrines which the president does advocate, Mr. Bryan named as being the national incorporation of railroads and other interstate commerce corporations, the right of the federal government to interfere by treaty with state rights ship subsidy and asset currency.

Added to this Mr. Bryan said the president has manifested a military spirit.

Mr. Bryan's nomination was predicted by each of the several speakers, and each time the prediction was repeated it brought forth a spontaneous response.

BOOST RATLIFF FOR IMPORTANT POSITION.

Whereas, The first legislature will likely have a committee to revise, amend, and enact criminal laws for the state of Oklahoma

And whereas, We recognize in the Hon. E. S. Ratliff, the qualities of being a good lawyer, a man of good judgment, a man of fine moral character, and a good law abiding citizen who always stands on the side of good morals and the enforcement of law,

Therefore Be it Resolved, By the Ada Bar Association in convention assembled that we heartily and unreservedly commend him to the speaker of the House of Representatives as chairman

APPEAL TO THE LEGISLATURE

Mayor Barton and Others Appointed as Committee to Urge Legislation Needed for City Governments--Mayors at Muskogee Pass Important Resolutions.

Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 26. The mayors of the new state in convention here yesterday passed resolutions urging that a bill be presented to the first legislature that will place the towns of old Indian Territory and Oklahoma on the same legal basis. It was further urged that legal power be extended to cities to levy and collect taxes independent of the town ship organizations; that all towns of over 2,000 persons be permitted to adopt such a charter, with provisions as they deem best; that the yhave the full power to change from an aldermanic to a commission form of government and that the legislature create a special commission to classify towns in their proper class.

A lobby will be maintained at Guthrie during the legislative session to endeavor to bring about these things.

Other sections of the resolutions adopted ask that an occupation tax be extended to all towns, and also recommend that the legislature give cities the power to enforce the compulsory education laws, by fixing the proper penalties. The expenses of the committee at Guthrie will be borne by the towns in the organization. The legislative committee is composed of the following: H. M. Scales, Oklahoma City; C. W. Miller, Weleetka; T. H. Martin, Muskogee, F. G. Chambers, Oklahoma City B. B. Bridges, Chickasha; W. E. Rhode, Tulsa; Brooks Fort, McAlester; C. O. Barton, Ada; Jno. M. Shea, Bartlesville.

The committee reporting on municipal ownership of public utilities recommended that wherever such a utility was a necessity that it would be profitable as a municipal plant. The committee had reports from many towns operating such plants and universally found them to be profitable.

The legislative committee selected Harry D. Levy, of Muskogee, as a permanent secretary. Another proposed municipal code will be drawn up and submitted at another meeting of the mayors to be held upon call of the president. If it is endorsed by that convention it will be taken before the legislature.

HOW TO GET ROADS OPENED.

The county commissioners have been besieged by people clamorous for the opening of section roads, and they request The News to publish the procedure necessary to get such roads opened.

In this undertaking the various township boards, and not the county commissioners, must take the initiative. Each township board should get together and organize at once. Their place of meeting is the township clerk's home. It is the board's duty to carefully lay out and number the road districts in the township, then file report of same with the county clerk. A road overseer for each district is appointed by the township trustee. Then it is the overseer's duty to open up the roads on all section lines in his district.

The natural section line roads are strictly under township control. There is provided a township road tax of 5 mills. The county commissioners take jurisdiction where it becomes necessary to build bridges or to condemn land for a more practical route. There is provision for a tax of 10 mills for a county road and bridge fund.

The county clerk is required by law to furnish overseers with pamphlets containing in full the laws pertaining to roads.

GET SIDEWALKS IN SHAPE.

This sloppy weather is a capital time for the street commissioner to inspect the crossings with a view to putting them in good shape against the winter's slush. Some of the gravel crossings have become so beaten down that one needs rubber boots to get across. Also it's a good time for property owners to raise the grade of walks upon which their lots abut.

Has any one invited you out to Thanksgiving dinner yet?

VERY FIRST SIGNS.

Of Serious Kidney Trouble Are Generally in the Back.

Take care of backache. A great many cases of kidney complaint are reported about here, also bladder trouble and rheumatism.

An authority once stated that pain in the back, loins or region of the kidneys is the danger signal nature hangs out to notify the sufferer that there is something wrong with the kidneys, which should receive immediate attention. Only vegetable treatment should be administered and absolutely no strongly alcoholic patent medicines which are harmful to the kidneys and bladder.

The following prescription, while simple, harmless and inexpensive, is known and recognized as a sovereign remedy for kidney complaint. The ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy and anyone can mix them: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Paudion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. This preparation is said to restore the natural function of the kidneys, so they will sift and strain the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, purifying it and relieving rheumatism. Backache will be relieved, the urine will be neutralized and cleared and no longer a cause of irritation, thereby overcoming such symptoms as weak bladder, painful frequent and other urinary difficulties.

This is worth trying and may prove just what many people here need.

STILL FEAR VIOLENCE

FROM SNAKE INDIANS

Mysterious Piles of Chunks Found in the Road May Mean "Skiddoo."

G. W. Tigner, of the Cannon's School House community, who reported Tuesday the threatened rising of the Snake Indians in that vicinity, an account of which was published in The News, was in town again today. He reports the people in his vicinity still nervous over the situation.

Six or eight shots late last night were heard near his place, but no acts of violence nor direct threats have been reported. However, on the road to town this morning Mr. Tigner encountered a mysterious pile of chunks in the highway and he was told of other such piles being found. He quotes Tom Ford an old settler in that section, as authority for the explanation that such a pile of chunks is the Snake's warning to quit the road and moreover to quit the country.

When questioned as to whether he himself feared the Indians would do any harm Mr. Tigner said after a moment's deliberation, "Sometimes I think they won't do any thing; and then, again, I fear they will."

Evidently he suspects the chunk piles were meant as a "skiddoo" notice for the whites.

Slippery Old Weather.

The weather today has made a monkey out of the weather man. It was forecasted for Wednesday "Fair and very dry." But about 5:30 a. m. it began raining, and has continued steadily ever since, and bids fair to keep on a good while longer.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn heavy growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this terrible disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this horrible, much dreaded disease. These and like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes truly pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer with this help. AN EVENING OF FUN.

Minstrel Show Kept Large Audience Roaring With Laughter.

A fair sized audience greeted the Barlow and Wilson Minstrels at the opera house last night, and everyone went away pleased.

Throughout the performance there was not a dull minute. The music is especially worthy of praise, both the instrumental and the vocal. Among this company are some of the best musicians and best comedians in the country. The funny work in some delightful form or another lasts continuously from beginning to end.

These minstrels live fully up to their profession—that of driving away the blues, and there is nothing coarse about them; they are all fine. They deserve a crowded house wherever they go.

I ain't feeling right today.

Something wrong I must say; Come to think of it, that's right.

I forgot my Rocky Mountain Tea last night.

Remodeling the Harris.

The work of making extensive improvements on the Harris Hotel has begun. The lobby will be greatly enlarged, making a fifty foot frontage instead of twenty-five, as it now is. There will be four rooms to compose the parlors instead of the present cramped apartment. Various other minor improvements will be made.

Ere long Owner Sam Harris contemplates building an annex of about ten rooms on the south side, with baths and sample rooms.

When completed the Harris will indeed be an ornament to Ada.

It is deliciously palatable, agrees with the weakest stomach, contains the most soothing, healing, strengthening and curative elements. Makes you well and happy. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets.

Below is published an excerpt from an editorial appearing in this week's Appeal to Reason, written by Bruce Rogers who formerly lived in Ada, but is now manager of the book department of the Appeal and an occasional editorial contributor. This lurid picture is a characteristic product of Bruce's trenchant pen:

"The present money panic is not a patching to what is to be. An industrial panic is sure to follow. Then watch hell break loose.

"The Socialists are not the only ones who have said this. Over two years ago John D. said it, and he said that this very year would see the number of unemployed increased from three to eight millions. A year ago James J. Hill put the number at ten millions. Estimating four dependent persons to each able bodied man, we will have fifty million people, over half the whole population, on the verge of want and many actually starving, though the store houses of the plutocrats are full to bursting high. It will be as if a blighting famine had fallen upon the land with the capitalists holding by the sacred right of private property all the springs from which bubble the means of life, and fighting the hunger slaves back by paid mercenaries, piety preaching retainers and bawd newspapers. The voice of despair will split the welkin of high heaven and the seven phials of God's wrath be spilled. Mother earth will seem to have weaned humanity and her blue zoned breasts, burgeoning with the wealth of liquid plenty, will hang shrivelled and drab like the festering dugs of some gaunt and barren hag of Doom.

A MISSOURI WOMAN

Tells a Story of Awful Suffering and Wonderful Relief.

Mrs. J. D. Johnson, of 603 West Hickman St., Columbia, Mo., says:

"Following an operation two years ago, dropsy set in, and my left side was so swollen the doctor said he would have to tap out the water. There was constant pain and a gurgling sensation around my heart, and I could not raise my arm above my head. The kidney action was disordered and passages of the secretions too frequent. On the advice of my husband I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Since using two boxes my trouble has not reappeared. This is wonderful, after suffering two years."

ADA EVENING NEWS.

ADA, IND. TER.

The New-Fashioned Country Girl.

Amid all the pleasurable recollections of the summer possessed by the crowds of city dwellers herding back to town, it is safe to hazard there is not one distinct impression of that one-time dominant figure on the country landscape—the old-fashioned, unsophisticated, brown-cheeked girl, with "the rustic, woodland air" of poetry. In her place in memory and on the films that the amateur will develop later is another creature, to whom rusticity is a matter of psychological analysis and unsophistication a sociological problem. As the modern country girl is so often a product of higher education, remarks the Troy Times, a new value has been given to rural life. To her not only nature in her infinity but even "the meanest flower that blows" can give not only thoughts that lie too deep for tears, but can also afford opportunity for the profoundest use of a knowledge of botany. The physiological value of sunburn she understands and will expound; the chemical constituents of air that's fresh she knows by rote. To her the earth is no more a mere stretch of landscape to be admired, but soil and subsoil to be fed as per the formula which she can and probably will convey to you in no mistakable terms, and out of which comes a rotation of crops the food values of all of which she knows. She may be discovered "coming through the rye," but it's no hazard to affirm that her interest meantime is in the quality of the grain, and any possibility of an amorous meeting midway is farthest from her mind and mood. The romancers and the poets still deftly evolve the rustic maiden unsophisticated, but the maid herself we now seek in vain.

The Human Form Divine.

When Fielding in "Tom Jones" said of Sophia Western that "her shape was not only exact but extremely delicate," he used one of the best words that perverse fate ever dropped from polite use. There is an aptness, simplicity and a certain quiet gentleness in it which is ill replaced by the so much less frank than the Queen substitutes of today. In our speech, Anne, so often brushing away sweetness with the merely timely or "smart," the only people who have shapes are those who have little else. Graces of mind or heart are not supposed to reside in them. If they sufficiently shine behind the footlights, "our 26—Beautiful Dresden Dolls—26," nothing more is asked or expected. The word "figure" almost inevitably connotes something of the hour-glass, the number "8." It is vaguely blatant. "Form" as inevitably suggests something rounded, soft and yielding. You can not speak of a woman's form without at least a suggestion of nudity. And such phrases as "angular form" are as clashing in connotation as "vivid gray." "Shape," on the other hand, connotes nothing at all but outline. One may speak of a rounded shape, an angular shape, a coarse or a delicate shape, with equal propriety. It is, declares Collier's Weekly, the best word in the language for the place. Here—and in an age of many inventions it is well to watch and prevent such things—with all our improvements we have not improved.

Perils of Chloroform.

At the recent meeting of the British scientists at Leicester, Dr. Waller laid before the physiological section some facts to show the perils of chloroform. The list of deaths in the past 50 years due to this cause is incomplete and yet was unable to give percentages in comparison with the total number of operations, but he held that the danger is still great, and that surgeons are remarkably ignorant as to the quantity required to produce the desired physiological effect, and are unable to guard with confidence against heart failure. It may be noted, says the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, that much is expected of the new Poe respiratory device, which is reported to have done remarkable things in starting the vital processes, even after life was apparently extinct. It should in particular, if it accomplishes what is claimed for it, be a safeguard against the pneumonia that sometimes follows the use of anaesthetics as a result of congestion of the lungs. But in spite of the peril of chloroform its blessings to the human race can hardly be exaggerated.

Seagulls can talk, according to the recent announcement of a Chicago university professor who has been studying their ways in the Dry Tortugas islands. He does not mean to have one understand that the birds discuss fine arts, political economy, or the latest fashions, but that they have a language by which they communicate with one another. He thinks that it is so systematically arranged that human beings can learn it, and communicate with the birds.

TWO SIDES OF THE STORY.

Told by Parkave to Ashstreet and by Mrs. Parkave to Mrs. Ashstreet.

When Mr Parkave reads this he will appreciate the fact that there are sometimes two sides to a story. As he was coming downtown on the car his friend, Mr Ashstreet, remarked: "Wasn't it a scorcher yesterday?" "That's the truth, and I know it, all right," replied Mr Parkave. "I fell asleep on the lounge after dinner, and—don't laugh—dreamed of a cooling thunderstorm, with rain and hail dashing against the house. Woke up and found my collar wilted, the perspiration streaming down my face and my underclothes as moist as if I had been out on the golf links with the mercury at 110 in the sun. Fact! Had to take a shower bath and change my clothing."

The other side of the story was told by Mrs Parkave two hours later as she was on her way to do some shopping. On the car she met Mrs Ashstreet, and, of course, the hot weather was referred to.

"Yes, and I played such a mean trick on my man that I am almost ashamed to tell it," said Mrs Parkave. "What was it, dear? You know I can keep a secret," asked Mrs. Ashstreet, unable to conceal her curiosity.

"Well, you know, as I have often told you, Jack snores terribly. Yesterday after dinner he went to sleep on the lounge and was soon snoring loud enough to alarm the neighborhood. The noise grated on my nerves, and in self-defense, as I said to myself, I went to the music room and banged away on the piano till I perspired. And what do you think I played?"

"You remember that descriptive storm piece I used to play when I wished to show off at boarding school? Well, I literally made the piano crash with thunder, and I had hailstones and big raindrops rattling and pattering noisily against the windows and shingles. Perhaps I improvised a little and got in more thunder than the composer's score called for, but I was determined to drown Jack's snores, and to make the storm more realistic, I switched the lights on and off a few times. Finally, I heard Jack get up from the lounge and mumble something about the heat."

"Has it been raining?" he asked as I came into the room.

"No," I replied. "Well, I must have been dreaming, he said. 'Thought I heard thunder and saw lightning. Feel as if I had been taking a Turkish bath with my clothes on.'"

"Then he went up stairs to the bathroom, and I forgot to explain when he came down."—Indianapolis News.

Selfish, Helpless Women.

The helpless woman is the most preeminently selfish of all women. The worst of it is that it is a very hard selfishness to fight against, as she is usually sweet-tempered in her tyranny. In her home life before marriage she is always the one who gets up last in the morning and shirks work all day long.

Today, however, men are beginning to realize that the self-reliant girl is not necessarily unfeminine, and that she makes a better friend or wife than the girl who is sweet and helpless. The helpless woman is a drawback to her husband from the start to finish. The helpless girl is daily growing more and more a back number, and sometime in the near future when man comes quite to his proper senses, she will be an utterly unknown quantity.—Exchange.

Kaiser Careful of Details.

A Hamburg paper tells this story about the kaiser's attention to detail: "Shortly after his arrival at Swinemunde the kaiser was standing on the bridge of the Hohenzollern, when he noticed that the sentry, a member of the Stettiner Royal Grenadiers, on duty near the customs officer, wore a topcoat, but had his trousers over his boots. The kaiser shouted to the lieutenant of the guard: 'Lieutenant, when topcoats are worn the trousers must be worn inside the boots.' The officer, an extremely youthful fellow, became confused and did not know what to say, and the emperor called in louder tones: 'Lieutenant, I again call your attention to the regulation—boots must be worn over the trousers by men who wear topcoats.' The command then flew from post to post and pedestrians wondered why the soldiers suddenly became busy with their boots."

The Judicial Way.

An associate justice of the supreme court of Patagascas was sitting by a river when a traveler approached and said:

"I wish to cross. Would it be lawful to use this boat?"

"It would," was the reply; "it is my boat."

The traveler thanked him, and pushing the boat into the water embarked and rowed away. But the boat sank and the man was drowned.

"Heartless man!" said an indignant spectator. "Why didn't you tell him that your boat had a hole in it?"

"The matter of the boat's condition," said the great jurist, "was not brought before me."—Cosmopolitan.

Doubly Sure.

"Smith," said the grocer, severely, "did you charge Mr. Jay for that basket of peaches?"

"Yes, sir," the clerk replied; "I think I did, sir."

"Well, charge him again," said the other. "You can't be too sure of a thing of that kind."—Columbian.

PROPRIETARY REMEDIES VS. PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS

Statistics Show, of the Deaths from Misuse of Drugs in Two Years, Only Three Per Cent. Were Due to Patent Medicines, According to Figures Based on Medical Certificates.

The press committee of the Proprietary Association of America will present at the next meeting of that body a report showing the number of accidental deaths caused by patent medicines in the two years ending June 30, 1907, as compared with deaths from other causes.

Almost immediately after the beginning of the latest crusade against proprietary medicines this committee was instructed to collect data. This work was done through the clipping bureaus, which furnished accounts of all deaths, exclusive of suicide, due to the misuse of medicines, drugs or poisons. The result showed that only three per cent. could be traced directly to the products made by the members of the association.

The greatest care is said to have been exercised in tabulating the figures received. Whenever the cause of death was doubtful, special investigation was made, no matter where the case might have occurred. The work of assorting and preparing the record was done in Chicago, and the original clippings and correspondence are in the possession of Ervin F. Kemp, 184 La Salle street, that city, the association's publicity agent. The report says, in part:

"A large number of accidents, resulting fatally or otherwise, were caused by the carelessness of persons who left drugs, medicines or poisons within the reach of children. A large number, also, were caused by persons going to medicine cabinets in the dark and taking down the wrong bottle. In no case reported was any medicine, 'patent' or otherwise, held responsible for injury or death except when left within the reach of children or taken or administered in gross overdose."

The committee says that it is unlikely that any cases of death from the use of patent medicine escaped the newspapers, but that it is probable that death from the causes tabulated did occur without receiving publicity. Physicians, of course, report the causes of death. The committee says that they would be the last to suppress the cause if due to the use of medicine not regularly prescribed.

A recapitulation of the committee's findings show 4,295 cases of poisoning, of which 1,753 were fatal. The greatest number of cases, 1,636, with 803 deaths, is attributed to medicines other than proprietary remedies. There are on the list 90 cases of sickness and 43 deaths due to patent medicines.

Analyzing its statistics, the committee finds 201 cases of sickness, with 143 deaths, due to strychnine tablets, which are among physicians' favorite remedies and are often left within the reach of children.

Under the head of miscellaneous prescriptions are grouped 44 cases where, the report says, it has been impossible after diligent inquiry to ascertain the name or the character of the drug or medicine which caused injury or death, beyond the fact that the medicine or drug was prescribed by a physician. Of these cases 13 were fatal. The committee says:

"Under the head of 'All Patent Medicines' are grouped all those remedies which are recognized as patent medicines and which are advertised direct to the public for internal use. Competent authorities say that at least one-half of the medicines taken in the United States are of the kind known as 'patent medicine,' and yet in two years among 80,000,000 people there have been but ninety cases (forty-three fatal) that have been reported in the newspapers from the use or misuse of these remedies."

Not in a single fully substantiated case is it ever charged that any patent medicine in recommended doses was injurious. In this connection it should be understood that in making death certificates and in reporting cases of injury to the newspapers from which these cases were secured, a physician had the final word, and in this connection is there any probability that the doctor will hide his own carelessness or neglect or that of a fellow practitioner whose support he may want at some time, and is there even a possibility that he might hide any responsibility that could be thrown at a patent medicine? Ask yourself these questions. Then when you have found the answer, consider that during all this most thorough and careful investigation covering a period of two years, in not a single established case was it shown that patent medicine in recommended doses was injurious.

The most remarkable case reported was that of an Italian laborer in New York who suffered from pains in the chest. A physician ordered a porous plaster which the patient ate, with fatal results.

Economical Boarders.

"Do you know any Bedouin Arabs, Mr. Slimm?" asked the boarding house lady.

MAKE DUTY BURDEN

SOME PEOPLE HAVE TOO MUCH CONSCIENCE.

Mr. Billtops Pursues the Subject for a Little, with a Concrete Illustration—Few Seem to Be Perfectly Balanced.

"Duty sits light on some, but," said Mr. Billtops, "how hard on others. 'Now, you take Mrs. Billtops, what do you think she said to me the other day? That she was afraid she wouldn't have everything cleaned up when she died!'"

"She doesn't mean, you know, that she wouldn't leave everything clean; but what she meant was that she was afraid she wouldn't leave everything in order and all the mending done and all that, so that it all could be carried along easily without her; that she wouldn't leave everything all cleaned up."

"What do you think of that for an exaggerated, burdensome sense of duty?"

"I've tried to reason with Mrs. Billtops about this, but it's no use. She does her duty as she sees it, and by her light her duty is plain; it is to work, work, not for herself but for others."

"She is very lenient with everybody else, but she never spares herself. Whatever work there is to be done she considers it her duty to do, and so she labors morning, noon and night, and day after day. I have told her that I'd like her to slack for a time, downright slack; that she ought to let things go, occasionally anyway, and rest a little; but she says that would never do; that if she once let things go she'd never catch up. And as it is, as I told you, she's afraid she won't leave everything cleaned up when she dies!"

"And so she works on; never satisfied unless everything is done just so, and always at it; self-denying always, but with that sense of duty always wearing on her, impelling her always to work, work, work. And I suppose there are 15,000,000 other women that work in just the same way, though I am not so sure, either, than any one of them works just as Mrs. Billtops does, so unselfishly and so devotedly."

"I would give $14.50, or more, if I could stop her, but she says we are poor, and the work must be done, though I know it would be just the same if we were rich, that her sense of duty would still oppress her, for she's built that way. Duty sits hard on her."

"A grand thing it would be for all of us if we could really know our duty and could perform it faithfully to the full, and yet not let it impose upon us undue burdens, not let our sense of duty harry us."

"There are people now and then to be met who, well knowing their duty and performing it faithfully and fully, nor failing ever to take up cheerfully others burdens when they should, yet know as truly what burdens they may in all fairness and kindness decline; well balanced people these, who see clearly and are not in doubt, the few rare people who know what is right and who are by that knowledge guided, to their own great help and no loss to that of all with whom they may be associated."

"Would that we were all thus happily constituted."

Scientists and the Bacilli.

A capital story is being told of a scientific man who is known all over the world for his researches into bacteria. The other day at an afternoon party he was given by his hostess some of the first strawberries of the year, and it was noticed that before he ate them he dipped each strawberry most carefully into a tumbler of water. His hostess asked him why he did this, and he replied that it was on account of the microbes, of which there are about two millions on each fruit. After he had eaten half a dozen strawberries he felt thirsty, and without thinking what he was doing he drank the water in which he had been washing the fruit. His hostess tried to stop him, but it was too late. "Oh, doctor," she exclaimed, "you have swallowed 12,000,000 microbes!" "Good heavens, so I have," said the scientist, and then added philosophically, after a pause, "well after all, it does not matter much."

Marse Henry's Monopoly.

When Louis Brownlow, now a Washington correspondent, was a reporter on the Louisville Courier-Journal, he was sitting at the telephone table in the local room one night waiting for a call.

The office dictionary is kept on that table. Brownlow was turning the leaves idly when Marse Henry Watterson came along.

Marse Henry does not see very well. He made out a figure at the table and said: "Who's that?"

"Brownlow, Mr. Watterson."

"What are you doing, Brownlow?"

"I'm reading the dictionary."

"Well, skip the adjectives, skip the adjectives, for I'm the only one on this paper who can use them."—Saturday Evening Post.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Suffered Two Years—Relieved In Three Months.

MR. C. B. FIZER, Mt. Sterling, Ky., writes:

"I have suffered with kidney and other trouble for ten years past."

"Last March I commenced using Peruna and continued for three months. I have not used it since, nor have I felt a pain."

"I believe that I am well and I therefore give my highest commendation to the curative qualities of Peruna."

Per-na For Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Geo. H. Simser, Grant, Ontario, Can., writes:

"I had not been well for about four years. I had kidney trouble, and, in fact, felt badly nearly all the time."

"This summer I got so very bad I thought I would try Peruna, so I wrote to you and began at once to take Peruna and Manalin."

"I took only two bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin, and now I feel better than I have for some time."

"I feel that Peruna and Manalin cured me and made a different woman of me altogether. I bless the day I picked up the little book and read of your Peruna."

It is the business of the kidneys to remove from the blood all poisonous materials. They must be active all the time, else the system suffers. They are times when they need a little assistance.

Peruna is exactly the sort of a remedy. It has saved many people from disaster by rendering the kidneys service at a time when they were not able to bear their own burdens.

DEMOCRATS BANQUET BRYAN

Five Hundred Partake of $3 Spread in Washington--Unanimous for Commoner's Nomination--In Notable Speech He Analyzes Roosevelt Policies.

Washington Nov. 26 William Bryan was last night tendered a banquet and reception by the United Democracy of the District of Columbia. Five hundred Democrats partook of the $3 dinner and more than double that number participated in the reception.

While the capacity of the Raleigh Hotel banquet hall placed a limit on the attendance the lid was completely off to enthusiasm and the long speech of Mr. Bryan like the half dozen shorter ones in his praise which preceded it afforded opportunity for repeated and continued demonstrations of political accord and personal regard for the guest of honor.

Mr. Bryan utilized the occasion to set forth at length a closely reasoned analogy between the policies of President Roosevelt and those he believes should be advocated in the administration of the government. From this viewpoint Mr. Bryan's speech was regarded by the prominent Democrats who heard it as a decidedly important and timely party deliverance.

Four of President Roosevelt's policies were democratic and four of them were undemocratic, he said, while there were four other democratic policies which the president did not advocate. Railroad regulation, the enforcement of the laws against the trusts, an income tax and arbitration as the method of settling disputes between labor and capital were all advocated by the president, Mr. Bryan said, but had been advocated by the democratic party long before the president took them up. As to none of them he maintained did the president have the support of republican party leaders. The four democratic doctrines the president will not endorse, the speaker gave as tariff reform, the election of senators by direct vote, the promise of ultimate independence to the Philippines, and the restriction of the use of the injunction in labor disputes.

The four undemocratic doctrines which the president does advocate, Mr. Bryan said, is being the nation of incorporation of railroads, and other interstate commerce corporations, the right of the federal government to interfere by treaty with state rights, the subsidy and asset curbing.

Added to this Mr. Bryan said, the president has manifested a military spirit.

Mr. Bryan's nomination was predicted by each of the several speakers and each time the prediction was repeated it brought forth a unanimous response.

APPEAL TO THE LEGISLATURE

Mayor Barton and Others Appointed as Committee to Urge Legislation Needed for City Governments--Mayors at Muskogee Pass Important Resolutions.

Muskogee Okla. Nov. 26 The mayors of the new state in convention here yesterday passed resolutions urging that a bill be presented to the first legislature that will place the towns of old Indian Territory and Oklahoma on the same legal basis. It was further urged that legal power be extended to cities to levy and collect taxes independent of the town ship organizations that all towns of over 2,000 persons be permitted to adopt such a charter with provisions as they deem best that the mayor shall have full power to change from an aldermanic to a commission form of government and that the legislature create a special commission to classify towns in their proper class.

A lobby will be maintained at Guthrie during the legislative session to endeavor to bring about these things. Other sections of the resolutions accepted ask the legislature to extend the power to all towns and also recommend that the legislature give cities the power to enforce the compulsory education laws by fixing the proper penalties. The expenses of the committee at Guthrie will be borne by the towns in the organization. The legislative committee is composed of the following: H. M. Seales, Oklahoma City; C. W. Miller, Weleetka; T. H. Martin, Muskogee; F. G. Chambers, Oklahoma City; D. B. Bridges, Chickasha; W. E. Rhode, Tulsa; Brooks, Fort McAlester; C. O. Barton, Ada; Jno. M. Shea, Bartlesville.

The committee reporting on municipal ownership of public utilities recommended that whenever such a utility was a necessity that it would be profitable as a municipal plant. The committee had reports from many towns operating such plants and universally found them to be profitable.

The legislative committee selected Harry D. Levy of Muskogee as a permanent secretary. Another proposed municipal code will be drawn up and submitted at another meeting of the mayors to be held upon call of the president. If it is endorsed by that convention it will be taken before the legislature.

ADA EVENING NEWS.

ADA, IND. TER.
The New-Fashioned Country Girl.

Amid all the pleasurable recollections of the summer possessed by the crowds of city dwellers hurrying back to town, it is safe to hazard there is not one distinct impression on the country landscape—the old-fashioned, unsophisticated, brown-cheeked girl, with
"the rustic, woodland air" of poetry.
In her place in memory and on the films that the amateur will develop later is another creature, to whom rusticity is a matter of psychological analysis and unsophistication a soci-ological problem. As the modern country girl is so often a product of higher education, remarks the Troy Times, a new value has been given to rural life. To her not only nature in her infancy but even "the meaneast flower that blows" can give not only thoughts that lie too deep for tears, but can also afford opportunity for the profoundest use of a knowledge of botany. The physiological value of sunbath she understands and will expound; the chemical constituents of air that's fresh she knows by rote. To her the earth is no more a mere stretch of landscape to be admired, but soil and subsoil to be fed as per
the formula which she can and probably will convey to you in no mistakable terms, and out of which comes a rotation of crops the food values of all of which she knows. She may be discovered "coming through the rye," but it's no hazard to affirm that her interest meantime is in the quality of the grain, and any possibility of an amorous meeting midway is farthest from her mind and mood. The romance and the poets still deftly evolve the rustic maiden unsophisticated but the maid herself we now seek in vain.

The Human Form Divine.

When Fielding in "Tom Jones" said of Sophia Western that "her shape was not only exact but extremely delicate" he used one of the best words that perverse fate ever dropped from poetic use. There is an aptness, simplicity and a certain quiet gentlemanliness in it which is ill replaced by the so much less frank than the Queen substitutes of to-day. In our speech, Anne, so often brushing away sweetness with the merely timely or "smart," the only people who have shapes are those who have little else.
Grace of mind or heart are not supposed to reside in them. If they sufficiently shine behind the footlights—our 26—beautiful Dresden Dolls—nothing more is asked or expected.
The word "figure" almost inevitably connotes something of the hourglass—the number "8." It is vaguely blatant "Point" as inevitably suggests something rounded, soft and yielding. You can not speak of a woman's form without at least a suggestion of nudity. And such phrases as "angular form" are as clashing in connotation as "ivory gray." "Shape," on the other hand, connotes nothing at all but outline. One may speak of a rounded shape, an angular shape, a coarse or a delicate shape, with equal propriety. It is, declares Collier's Weekly, the best word in the language for the place. Here—and in an age of many inventions it is well to watch and prevent such things—with all our improvements we have not improved

Perils of Chloroform.

At the recent meeting of the British scientists at Leicester, Dr. Waller laid before the physiological section some facts to show the perils of chloroform.
The list of deaths in the past 50 years due to this cause is incomplete and yet was unable to give percentages in comparison with the total number of operations, but he held that the danger is still great, and that surgeons are remarkably ignorant as to the quantity required to produce the desired physiological effect, and are unable to guard with confidence against heart failure. It may be noted, says the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, that much is expected of the new Poe respiratory device, which is reported to have done remarkable things in starting the vital processes, even after life was apparently extinct. It should be particularly, if it accomplishes what is claimed for it, be a safeguard against the pneumonia that sometimes follows the use of anaesthetics
as a result of congestion of the lungs.
But in spite of the peril of chloroform its blessings to the human race can hardly be exaggerated.

Seagulls can talk, according to the recent announcement of a Chicago university professor who has been studying their ways in the Dry Tortugas Islands. He does not mean to have one understand that the birds discuss fine arts, political economy, or the latest fashions, but that they have a language by which they communicate with one another. He thinks that it is so systematically arranged that human beings can learn it, and communicate with the birds.

TWO SIDES OF THE STORY.

Told by Parkave to Ashstreet and by Mrs. Parkave to Mrs. Ashstreet.

When Mr Parkave reads this he will appreciate the fact that there are sometimes two sides to a story. As he was coming downtown on the car
his friend, Mr Ashstreet, remarked:
"Wasn't it a scorcher yesterday?"
"That's the truth, and I know it, all right," replied Mr Parkave. "Fell asleep on the lounge after dinner,
and—don't laugh—dreamed of a cooling thunderstorm, with rain and hail dashing against the house. Woke up and found my collar wilted, the perspiration streaming down my face and my underclothes as moist as if I had been out on the golf links with the mercury at 110 in the sun. Fact!
Had to take a shower bath and change my clothing."

The other side of the story was told by Mrs Parkave two hours later as she was on her way to do some shopping. On the car she met Mrs Ashstreet, and, of course, the hot weather was referred to.

"Yes, and I played such a mean trick on my man that I am almost ashamed to tell it," said Mrs Parkave.
"What was it, dear? You know I can keep a secret," asked Mrs. Ash-street, unable to conceal her curiosity.

"Well, you know, as I have often told you, Jack snores terribly. Yesterday after dinner he went to sleep
on the lounge and was soon snoring loud enough to alarm the neighborhood. The noise grated on my nerves, and in self-defense, as I said to myself, I went to the music room and banged away on the piano till I perspired. And what do you think I played?"

"You remember that descriptive storm piece I used to play when I wished to show off at boarding school?
Well, I literally made the piano crash with thunder, and I had hailstones and big raindrops rattling and pat-tering noisily against the windows and shingles. Perhaps I improvised a little and got in more thunder than the composer's score called for, but I was determined to drown Jack's snores, and to make the storm more realistic, I switched the lights on and off a few times. Finally, I heard Jack get up from the lounge and mumble something about the heat."

"Has it been raining?" he asked as I came into the room."

"No," I replied.

"Well, I must have been dreaming,"
he said. "Thought I heard thunder and saw lightning. Feel as if I had been taking a Turkish bath with my clothes on."

"Then he went up stairs to the bathroom, and I forgot to explain when he came down."—Indianapolis News.

Selfish, Helpless Women.

The helpless woman is the most preeminently selfish of all women.
The worst of it is that it is a very hard selfishness to fight against, as she is usually sweet-tempered in her tyranny. In her home life before marriage she is always the one who gets up last in the morning and shirks work all day long.

Today, however, men are beginning to realize that the self-reliant girl is not necessarily unfeminine, and that she makes a better friend or wife than the girl who is sweet and helpless. The helpless woman is a drawback to her husband from the start to finish. The helpless girl is daily growing more and more a back number, and sometime in the near future when man comes quite to his proper senses, she will be an utterly unknown quantity.—Exchange.

Kaiser Careful of Details.

A Hamburg paper tells this story about the Kaiser's attention to detail:
"Shortly after his arrival at Swinemunde the Kaiser was standing on the bridge of the Hohenzollern, when he noticed that the sentry, a member of the Stettiner Royal Grenadiers, on duty near the customs officer, wore a topcoat, but had his trousers over his boots. The Kaiser shouted to the lieutenant of the guard 'Lieutenant,
when topcoats are worn the trousers must be worn inside the boots.' The officer, an extremely youthful fellow, became confused and did not know what to say, and the emperor called in louder tones: 'Lieutenant, I mean call your attention to the regulation—boots must be worn over the trousers by men who wear topcoats.' The command then flew from post to post and pedestrians wondered why the soldiers suddenly became busy with their boots."

The Judicial Way.

An associate justice of the supreme court of Patagascuar was sitting by a river when a traveler approached and said:

"I wish to cross. Would it be lawful to use this boat?"

"It would," was the reply; "It is my boat."

The traveler thanked him, and pushing the boat into the water embarked and rowed away. But the boat sank and the man was drowned.

"Heartless man!" said an indignant spectator. "Why didn't you tell him that your boat had a whole in it?"

"The matter of the boat's condition," said the great jurist, "was not brought before me."—Cosmopolitan.

Doubly Sure.

"Smith," said the grocer, severely,
"did you charge Mr. Jay for that basket of peaches?"

"Yes, sir," the clerk replied; "I think I did, sir."

"Well, charge him again," said the other. "You can't be too sure of a thing of that kind."—New York Times.

PROPRIETARY REMEDIES VS. PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS

Statistics Show, of the Deaths from Misuse of Drugs in Two Years, Only Three Per Cent. Were Due to Patent Medicines, According to Figures
Based on Medical Certificates.

The press committee of the Proprietary Association of America will present at the next meeting of that body
a report showing the number of accidental deaths caused by patent medicines in the two years ending June 30, 1907, as compared with deaths from other causes.

Almost immediately after the beginning of the latest crusade against proprietary medicines this committee was instructed to collect data. This work was done through the clipping bureaus, which furnished accounts of all deaths, exclusive of suicide, due to the misuse of medicines, drugs or poisons. The result showed that only three per cent. could be traced directly to the products made by the members of the association.

The greatest care is said to have been exercised in tabulating the figures received. Whenever the cause of death was doubtful, special investigation was made, no matter where the case might have occurred. The work of sorting and preparing the record was done in Chicago, and the original clippings and correspondence are in the possession of Ervin F.
Kemp, 184 La Salle street, that city, the association's publicity agent. The report says, in part:

"A large number of accidents, resulting fatally or otherwise, were caused by the carelessness of persons who left drugs, medicines or poisons within the reach of children. A large number, also, were caused by persons going to medicine cabinets in the dark and taking down the wrong bottle. In no case reported was any medicine,
'patent' or otherwise, held responsible for injury or death except when left within the reach of children or taken or administered in gross overdose."

The committee says that it is unlikely that any cases of death from the use of patent medicine escaped the newspapers, but that it is probable that death from the causes tabulated did occur without receiving publicity. Physicians, of course, report the causes of death. The committee says that they would be the last to suppress the cause if due to the use of medicine not regularly prescribed.
A recapitulation of the committee's findings show 4,235 cases of poisoning, of which 1,753 were fatal. The greatest number of cases, 1,636, with 303 deaths, is attributed to medicines
other than proprietary remedies.
There are on the list 90 cases of sickness and 43 deaths due to patent medicines.

Analyzing its statistics, the committee finds 201 cases of sickness, with 143 deaths, due to strychnine tablets, which are among physicians' favorite remedies and are often left within the reach of children.

Under the head of miscellaneous prescriptions are grouped 44 cases where, the report says, it has been impossible after diligent inquiry to ascertain the name or the character of the drug or medicine which caused injury or death, beyond the fact that the medicine or drug was prescribed by a physician. Of these cases 18 were fatal. The committee says:

"Under the head of 'All Patent Medicines' are grouped all those remedies which are recognized as patent medicines and which are advertised direct to the public for internal use.
Competent authorities say that at least one-half of the medicines taken in the United States are of the kind known as 'patent medicine,' and yet in two years among 80,000,000 people there have been but ninety cases (forty-three fatal) that have been reported in the newspapers from the use or misuse of these remedies."

Not in a single fully substantiated case is it ever charged that any patent medicine in recommended doses was injurious. In this connection it should be understood that in making death certificates and in reporting cases of injury to the newspapers from which these cases were secured, a physician had the final word, and in this connection is there any probability that the doctor will hide his own carelessness or neglect or that of a fellow practitioner whose support he may want at some time, and is there even a possibility that he might hide any responsibility that could be thrown at a patent medicine? Ask yourself these questions. Then when you have found the answer, consider that during all this most thorough and careful investigation covering a period of two years, in not a single established case was it shown that patent medicine in recommended doses was injurious.

The most remarkable case reported was that of an Italian laborer in New York who suffered from pains in the chest. A physician ordered a porous plaster which the patient ate, with fatal results.

Economical Boarders.

"Do you know any Bedouin Arabs, Mr. Slimm?" asked the boarding house lady.

"Why, what are you talking about,
madam?"

"Well, I read in the papers, to-day, that the Bedouin Arabs can go a whole day and only want a few dates soaked in melted butter. I thought I'd like to get a few of 'em to board, that's all."—Yonkers Statesman.

MAKE DUTY BURDEN

SOME PEOPLE HAVE TOO MUCH CONSCIENCE.

Mr. Billtops Pursues the Subject for a Little, with a Concrete Illustration—Few Seem to Be Perfectly Balanced.

"Duty sits light on some, but," said
Mr. Billtops, "how hard on others."
"Now, you take Mrs. Billtops, what do you think she said to me the other day? That she was afraid she wouldn't leave everything cleaned up when she died!"

"She didn't mean, you know, that she wouldn't leave everything clean;
but what she meant was that she was afraid she wouldn't leave everything in order and all the mending done and all that, so that it all could be carried along easily without her; that she wouldn't leave everything all cleaned up."

"What do you think of that for an exaggerated, burdensome sense of duty?"

"I've tried to reason with Mrs. Billtops about this, but it's no use. She does her duty as she sees it, and by her light her duty is plain; it is to work, work, not for herself but for others."

"She is very lenient with everybody else, but she never spares herself.
Whatever work there is to be done
she considers it her duty to do, and so she labors morning, noon and night, and day after day. I have told her that I'd like her to be slack for a time, downright slack; that she ought to let things go, occasionally anyway, and rest a little; but she says that would never do; that it she once let things go she'd never catch up. And as it is,
as I told you, she's afraid she won't leave everything cleaned up when she dies!"

"And so she works on, never satisfied unless everything is done just so,
and always at it, self-denying always,
but with that sense of duty always wearing on her, impelling her always to work, work, work. And I suppose there are 15,000,000 other women that work in just the same way, though I am not so sure, either, than any one of them works just as Mrs. Billtops does, so unselfishly and so devotedly."

"I would give $14.50, or more, if I could stop her, but she says we are poor, and the work must be done, though I know it would be just the same if we were rich, that her sense of duty would still oppress her, for she's built that way. Duty sits hard on her."

"A grand thing it would be for all of us if we could really know our duty and could perform it faithfully to the full, and yet not let it impose upon us undue burdens, not let our sense of duty harry us."

"There are people now and then to be met who, well knowing their duty and performing it faithfully and fully, nor failing ever to take up cheerfully others' burdens when they should,
yet know as truly what burdens they may in all fairness and kindness decline; well balanced people, these,
who see clearly and are not in doubt,
the few rare people who know what is right and who are by that knowledge guided, to their own great help and no loss to that of all with whom they may be associated."

Scientists and the Bacilli.

A capital story is being told of a scientific man who is known all over the world for his researches into bacteria. The other day at an afternoon party he was given by his hostess some of the first strawberries of the year, and it was noticed that before he ate them he dipped each strawberry most carefully into a tumbler of water. His hostess asked him why he did this, and he replied that it was on account of the numerous, of which there are about two millions on each fruit. After he had eaten half a dozen strawberries he left the table, and without thinking what he was doing he drank the water in which he had been washing the fruit.
His hostess tried to stop him, but it was too late. "Oh, doctor," she exclaimed, "you have swallowed 12,000 microbes!" "Good heavens, so I have," said the scientist, and then added philosophically, after a pause
"well after all, it does not matter much."

Marse Henry's Monopoly.

When Louis Brownlow, now a Washington correspondent, was a reporter on the Louisville Courier-Journal, he was sitting at the telephone table in the local room one night waiting for a call.

The office dictionary is kept on that table. Brownlow was turning the leaves idly when Marse Henry Watterson came along.

Marse Henry does not see very well. He made out a figure at the table and said: "Who's that?"

"Brownlow, Mr. Watterson."

"What are you doing, Brownlow?"

"I'm reading the dictionary."

"Well, skip the adjectives, skip the adjectives, for I'm the only one on this paper who can use them."—Saturday Evening Post.

She Wanted That.

"I shall make you love me yet," declared Mr. Stinley, determinedly. "I shall leave no stone unturned."

"Ah! that sounds something like it!"
exclaimed the fair girl. "If the stone weighs not less than a karat and is pure white you may interest me."—

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Suffered Two Years—Relieved In Three Months.

MR. C. B. FIZER, Mt. Sterling, Ky.

writes:
"I have suffered with kidney and other trouble for ten years past."
"Last March I commenced using Peruna and continued for three months.
I have not used it since, nor have I felt a pain."
"I believe that I am well and I therefore give my highest commendation to the curative qualities of Peruna."

Peruna For Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Geo. H. Simser, Grant, Ontario,
Can., writes:

"I had not been well for about four years. I had kidney trouble, and, in fact, felt badly nearly all the time."

"This summer I got so very bad I thought I would try Peruna, so I wrote to you and began at once to take Peruna and Manalin."

"I took only two bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin, and now I feel better than I have for some time."

"I feel that Peruna and Manalin cured me and made a different woman of me altogether. I bless the day I picked up the little book and read of your Peruna."

It is the business of the kidneys to remove from the blood all poisonous materials. They must be active all the time, else the system suffers. They are times when they need a little assistance.
Peruna is exactly the sort of a remedy. It has saved many people from disaster by rendering the kidneys service at a time when they were not able to bear their own burdens.

DEMOCRATS BANQUET BRYAN

Five Hundred Partake of $3 Spread in Washington--Unanimous for Commoner's Nomination--In Notable Speech He Analyzes Roosevelt Policies.

Washington Nov. 26 William Bryan was last night tendered a banquet and reception by The United Democracy of the District of Columbia. Five hundred Democrats partook of the $3 dinner and more than double that number participated in the reception.

While the capacity of the Raleigh Hotel banquet hall placed a limit on the attendance the lid was completely off to enthusiasm and the long speech of Mr. Bryan like the half dozen shorter ones in his praise which preceded it afforded opportunity for repeated and continued demonstrations of political accord and personal regard for the guest of honor.

Mr. Bryan utilized the occasion to set forth at length a closely reasoned analogy between the policies of President Roosevelt and those he believes should be advocated in the administration of the government from this viewpoint. Mr. Bryan's speech was regarded by the prominent democrats who heard it as a decidedly important and timely party deliverance.

Mr. Bryan's analysis of President Roosevelt's present views was unique. Four of President Roosevelt's policies were democratic and four of them were undemocratic, he said, while there were four other democratic policies which the president did not advocate. Railroad regulation, the enforcement of the laws against the trusts, an income tax and arbitration as the method of settling disputes between labor and capital were all advocated by the president, Mr. Bryan said but had been advocated by the democratic party long before the president took them up. As to none of them he maintained did the president have the support of republican party leaders. The four democratic doctrines the president will not endorse the speaker gave as traits reform, the election of senators by direct vote, the promise of ultimate independence to the Philippines and the restriction of the use of the injunction in labor disputes.

The four undemocratic doctrines which the president does advocate, Mr. Bryan said, is being the nation of incorporation of railroads and other interstate commerce corporations, the right of the federal government to interfere by treaty with state rights, big subsidies and asset encumbrance. Added to this Mr. Bryan said, the president has manifested a military spirit.

Mr. Bryan's nomination was predicted by each of the six club speakers and each time the prediction was repeated it brought forth a unanimous response.

APPEAL TO THE LEGISLATURE

Mayor Barton and Others Appointed as Committee to Urge Legislation Needed for City Governments--Mayors at Muskogee Pass Important Resolutions.

Muskogee Okla. Nov. 26 The mayors of the new state in convention here yesterday passed resolutions urging that a bill be presented to the first legislature that will place the towns of old Indian Territory and Oklahoma on the same legal basis. It was further urged that legal power be extended to cities to levy and collect taxes independent of the township organizations that all towns of over 2000 persons be permitted to adopt such a charter with provisions as they deem best that the whole full power to change from an aldermanic to a commission form of government and that the legislature create a special commission to classify towns in their proper class.

A lobby will be maintained at Guthrie during the legislative session to endeavor to bring about these things. Other sections of the resolutions requested that an act be extended to all towns and also recommended that the legislature give cities the power to enforce the compulsory education laws by fixing the proper penalties. The expenses of the committee at Guthrie will be borne by the towns in the organization. The legislative committee is composed of the following: H. M. Scales, Oklahoma City; C. W. Miller, Weleetka; T. H. Martin, Muskogee; F. G. Chambers, Oklahoma City; B. B. Bridges, Chickasha; W. E. Rhode, Tulsa; Brooks, Fort; McAlester, C. O. Barton, Ada; Jno. M. Shea, Bartlesville.

The committee reporting on municipal ownership of public utilities recommended that whenever such a utility was a necessity that it would be profitable as a municipal plant. The committee had reports from many towns operating such plants and universally found them to be profitable.

The legislative committee selected Harry D. Levy of Muskogee as a permanent secretary. Another proposed municipal code will be drawn up and submitted at another meeting of the mayors to be held upon call of the president. If it is endorsed by that convention it will be taken before the legislature.

A MISSOURI WOMAN
Tells a Story of Awful Suffering and Wonderful Relief.

Mrs. J. D. Johnson, of 608 West Hickman St., Columbia, Mo., says: "Following an operation two years ago, dropsy set in, and my left side was so swollen the doctor said he would have to tap out the water. There was constant pain and a gurgling sensation around my heart, and I could not raise my arm above my head. The kidney action was disordered and passages of the secretions too frequent. On the advice of my husband I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Since using two boxes my trouble has not reappeared. This is wonderful, after suffering two years."

ADA, IND. TER.

The New-Fashioned Country Girl.
Amid all the pleasurable recollections of the summer possessed by the crowds of city dwellers herding back to town, it is safe to hazard there is not one distinct impression of that one-time dominant figure on the country landscape—the old-fashioned, unsophisticated, brown-cheeked girl, with "the rustic, woodland air" of poetry. In her place in memory and on the films that the amateur will develop later is another creature, to whom rusticity is a matter of psychological analysis and unsophistication a sociological problem. As the modern country girl is so often a product of higher education, remarks the Troy Times, a new value has been given to rural life. To her not only nature in her infancy but even "the meaneast flower that blows" can give not only thoughts that be too deep for tears, but can also afford opportunity for the profoundest use of a knowledge of botany. The physiological value of sunburn she understands and will expound; the chemical constituents of air that's fresh she knows by rote. To her the earth is no more a mere stretch of landscape to be admired, but soil and subsoil to be fed as per the formula which she can and probably will convey to you in no mistakable terms, and out of which comes a rotation of crops the food values of all of which she knows. She may be discovered "coming through the rye," but it's no hazard to affirm that her interest meantime is in the quality of the grain, and any possibility of an amorous meeting midway is farthest from her mind and mood. The romancers and the poets still dolefully evolve the rustic maiden unsophisticated but the maid herself we now seek in vain.

The Human Form Divine.
When Fielding in "Tom Jones" said of Sophia Western that "her shape was not only exact but extremely delicate," he used one of the best words that perverse fate ever dropped from polite use. There is an uprightness, simplicity and a certain quiet gentleness in it which is ill replaced by the so much less frank than the Queen's subtleties of today. In our speech, Anne, so often brushing away sweetness with the merely timely or "smart," the only people who have shapes are those who have little else. Graces of mind or heart are not supposed to reside in them. If they sufficiently shine behind the footlights, "our 26—beautiful Dresden Dolls—26," nothing more is asked or expected. The word "figure" almost inevitably connotes something of the homeliness the number "8." It is vaguely blatant "Point" as inevitably suggests something rounded, soft and yielding. You can not speak of a woman's form without at least a suggestion of nudity. And such phrases as "angular form" are as clashing in connotation as "vivid gray." "Shape," on the other hand, connotes nothing at all but outline. One may speak of a rounded shape, an angular shape, a coarse or a delicate shape, with equal propriety. It is, declares Collier's Weekly, the best word in the language for the place. Here—and in an age of many inventions it is well to watch and prevent such things—with all our improvements we have not improved

Perils of Chloroform.
At the recent meeting of the British scientists at Leicester, Dr. Waller laid before the physiological section some facts to show the perils of chloroform. The list of deaths in the past 50 years due to this cause is incomplete and yet was unable to give percentages in comparison with the total number of operations, but he held that the danger is still great, and that surgeons are remarkably ignorant as to the quantity required to produce the desired physiological effect, and are unable to guard with confidence against heart failure. It may be noted, says the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, that much is expected of the new Puer respiratory device, which is reported to have done remarkable things in starting the vital processes, even after life was apparently extinct. It should be in particular, if it accomplishes what is claimed for it, be a safeguard against the pneumonia that sometimes follows the use of anaesthetics as a result of congestion of the lungs. But in spite of the peril of chloroform its blessings to the human race can hardly be exaggerated.

Seagulls can talk, according to the recent announcement of a Chicago university professor who has been studying their ways in the Dry Tortugas islands. He does not mean to have one understand that the birds discuss fine arts, political economy, or the latest fashions, but that they have a language by which they communicate with one another. He thinks that it is so systematically arranged that human beings can learn it, and communicate with the birds.

TWO SIDES OF THE STORY.

Told by Parkave to Ashstreet and by Mrs. Parkave to Mrs. Ashstreet.

When Mr. Parkave reads this he will appreciate the fact that there are sometimes two sides to a story. As he was coming downtown on the car his friend, Mr. Ashstreet, remarked, "Wasn't it a scorcher yesterday?" "That's the truth, and I know it. All right," replied Mr. Parkave. "Fell asleep on the lounge after dinner, and—don't laugh—dreamed of a cooling thunderstorm, with rain and hail dashing against the house. Woke up and found my collar wetted, the perspiration streaming down my face and my underclothes as moist as if I had been out on the golf links with the mercury at 110 in the sun. Fact! Had to take a shower bath and change my clothing."

The other side of the story was told by Mrs. Parkave two hours later as she was on her way to do some shopping. On the car she met Mrs. Ashstreet, and, of course, the hot weather was referred to.

"Yes, and I played such a mean trick on my man that I am almost ashamed to tell it," said Mrs. Parkave. "What was it, dear? You know I can keep a secret," asked Mrs. Ashstreet, unable to conceal her curiosity.

"Well, you know, as I have often told you, Jack scores terribly. Yesterday after dinner he went to sleep on the lounge and was soon snoring loud enough to alarm the neighborhood. The noise grated on my nerves, and in self-defense, as I said to myself, I went to the music room and banged away on the piano till I perspired. And what do you think I played?"

"You remember that descriptive storm piece I used to play when I wished to show off at boarding school? Well, I literally made the piano crash with thunder, and I had hailstones and big raindrops rattling and pattering noisily against the windows and shingles. Perhaps I improvised a little and got in more thunder than the composer's score called for, but I was determined to drown Jack's snoring, and to make the storm more realistic, I switched the lights on and off a few times. Finally, I heard Jack get up from the lounge and mumble something about the heat."

"Has it been raining?" he asked as I came into the room.

"No," I replied.

"Well, I must have been dreaming," he said. "I thought I heard thunder and saw lightning. Feel as if I had been taking a Turkish bath with my clothes on."

"Then he went up stairs to the bathroom, and I forgot to explain when he came down."—Indianapolis News.

Selfish, Helpless Women.
The helpless woman is the most preeminently selfish of all women. The worst of it is that it is a very hard selfishness to fight against, as she is usually sweet-tempered in her tyranny. In her home life before marriage she is always the one who gets up last in the morning and shifts work all day long.

Today, however, men are beginning to realize that the self-reliant girl is not necessarily unfeminine, and that she makes a better friend or wife than the girl who is sweet and helpless. The helpless woman is a drawback to her husband from the start to finish. The helpless girl is daily growing more and more a back number, and sometime in the near future when man comes quite to his proper senses, she will be an utterly unknown quantity.—Exchange.

Kaiser Careful of Details.
A Hamburg paper tells this story about the Kaiser's attention to detail: "Shortly after his arrival at Swinemunde the Kaiser was standing on the bridge of the Hohenzollern, when he noticed that the sentry, a member of the Stettiner Royal Grenadiers, on duty near the customs officer, wore a topcoat, but had his trousers over his boots. The Kaiser shouted to the Lieutenant of the guard 'Lieutenant, when topcoats are worn the trousers must be worn inside the boots.' The officer, an extremely youthful fellow, became confused and did not know what to say, and the emperor called in louder tones: 'Lieutenant, I again call your attention to the regulation—boots must be worn over the trousers by men who wear topcoats.' The command then flew from post to post and pedestrians wondered why the soldiers suddenly became busy with their boots."

The Judicial Way.
An associate justice of the supreme court of Patagonia was sitting by a river when a traveler approached and said: "I wish to cross. Would it be lawful to use this boat?" "It would," was the reply; "It is my boat."

The traveler thanked him, and pushing the boat into the water embarked and rowed away. But the boat sank and the man was drowned. "Heartless man!" said an indignant spectator. "Why didn't you tell him that your boat had a hole in it?" "The matter of the boat's condition," said the great jurist, "was not brought before me."—Cosmopolitan.

Doubly Sure.
"Smith," said the grocer, severely, "did you charge Mr. Jay for that basket of peaches?" "Yes, sir," the clerk replied; "I think I did, sir." "Well, charge him again," said the grocer. "You can't be too sure of a thing of that kind."—Exchange.

PROPRIETARY REMEDIES VS. PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS

Statistics Show, of the Deaths from Misuse of Drugs in Two Years, Only Three Per Cent. Were Due to Patent Medicines, According to Figures Based on Medical Certificates.

The press committee of the Proprietary Association of America will present at the next meeting of that body a report showing the number of accidental deaths caused by patent medicines in the two years ending June 30, 1907, as compared with deaths from other causes.

Almost immediately after the beginning of the latest crusade against proprietary medicines this committee was instructed to collect data. This work was done through the clipping bureaus, which furnished accounts of all deaths, exclusive of suicide, due to the misuse of medicines, drugs or poisons. The result showed that only three per cent. could be traced directly to the products made by the members of the association.

The greatest care is said to have been exercised in tabulating the figures received. Whenever the cause of death was doubtful, special investigation was made, no matter where the case might have occurred. The work of ascertaining and preparing the record was done in Chicago, and the original clippings and correspondence are in the possession of Ervin F. Kemp, 134 La Salle street, that city, the association's publicity agent. The report says, in part:

"A large number of accidents, resulting fatally or otherwise, were caused by the carelessness of persons who left drugs, medicines or poisons within the reach of children. A large number, also, were caused by persons going to medicine cabinets in the dark and taking down the wrong bottle. In no case reported was any medicine, 'patent' or otherwise, held responsible for injury or death except when left within the reach of children or taken or administered in gross overdose."

The committee says that it is unlikely that any cases of death from the use of patent medicines escaped the newspapers, but that it is probable that death from the causes tabulated did occur without receiving publicity. Physicians, of course, report the causes of death. The committee says that they would be the last to suppress the cause if due to the use of medicine not regularly prescribed.

A recapitulation of the committee's findings show 4,255 cases of poisoning, of which 1,757 were fatal. The greatest number of cases, 1,636, with 803 deaths, is attributed to medicines other than proprietary remedies.

Analyzing its statistics, the committee finds 201 cases of sickness, with 143 deaths, due to strychnine tablets, which are among physicians' favorite remedies and are often left within the reach of children.

Under the head of miscellaneous prescriptions are grouped 44 cases where, the report says, it has been impossible after diligent inquiry to ascertain the name or the character of the drug or medicine which caused injury or death, beyond the fact that the medicine or drug was prescribed by a physician. Of these cases 18 were fatal. The committee says:

"Under the head of 'All Patent Medicines' are grouped all those remedies which are recognized as patent medicines and which are advertised direct to the public for internal use. Competent authorities say that at least one-half of the medicines taken in the United States are of the kind known as 'patent medicines,' and yet in two years among 80,000,000 people there have been but ninety cases (forty-three fatal) that have been reported in the newspapers from the use or misuse of these remedies."

Not in a single fully substantiated case is it ever charged that any patent medicine in recommended doses was injurious. In this connection it should be understood that in making death certificates and in reporting cases of injury to the newspapers from which these cases were secured, a physician had the final word, and in this connection there is any probability that the doctor will hide his own carelessness or neglect or that of a fellow practitioner whose support he may want at some time, and is there even a possibility that he might hide any responsibility that could be thrown at a patent medicine? Ask yourself these questions. Then when you have found the answer, consider that during all this most thorough and careful investigation covering a period of two years, in not a single established case was it shown that patent medicine in recommended doses was injurious.

The most remarkable case reported was that of an Italian laborer in New York who suffered from pains in the chest. A physician ordered a porous plaster which the patient ate, with fatal results.

Economical Boarders.
"Do you know any Bedouin Arabs, Mr. Slimm?" asked the boarding house lady. "Why, what are you talking about, madam?" "Well, I read in the papers, to-day, that the Bedouin Arabs can go a whole day and only want a few dates soaked in melted butter. I thought I'd like to get a few of 'em to board, that's all."—Yonkers Statesman.

MAKE DUTY BURDEN

SOME PEOPLE HAVE TOO MUCH CONSCIENCE.

Mr. Billtops Pursues the Subject for a Little, with a Concrete Illustration—Few Seem to Be Perfectly Balanced.

"Duty sits light on some, but," said Mr. Billtops, "how hard on others."

"Now, you take Mrs. Billtops, what do you think she said to me the other day? That she was afraid she wouldn't have everything cleaned up when she died!"

"She don't mean, you know, that she wouldn't leave everything clean; but what she meant was that she was afraid she wouldn't leave everything in order and all the mending done and all that, so that it all could be carried along easily without her; that she wouldn't leave everything all cleaned up."

"What do you think of that for an exaggerated, burdensome sense of duty?"

"I've tried to reason with Mrs. Billtops about this, but it's no use. She does her duty as she sees it, and by her light her duty is plain; it is to work, work, not for herself but for others."

"She is very lenient with everybody else, but she never spares herself. Whatever work there is to be done she considers it her duty to do, and so she labors morning, noon and night, and day after day. I have told her that I'd like her to be slack for a time, downright slack; that she ought to let things go, occasionally anyway, and rest a little; but she says that would never do; that if she once let things go she'd never catch up. And as it is, as I told you, she's afraid she won't leave everything cleaned up when she dies!"

"And so she works on, never satisfied unless everything is done just so, and always at it; self-denying always, but with that sense of duty always wearing on her, impelling her always to work, work, work. And I suppose there are 15,000,000 other women that work in just the same way, though I am not so sure, either, than any one of them works just as Mrs. Billtops does, so unselfishly and so devotedly."

"I would give $14.50, or more, if I could stop her, but she says we are poor, and the work must be done, though I know it would be just the same if we were rich, that her sense of duty would still oppress her, for she's built that way. Duty sits hard on her."

"A grand thing it would be for all of us if we could really know our duty and could perform it faithfully to the full, and yet not let it impose upon us undue burdens, not let our sense of duty harry us."

"There are people now and then to be met who, well knowing their duty and performing it faithfully and fully, are falling ever to take up cheerfully others' burdens when they should, yet know as truly what burdens they may in all fairness and kindness decline; well balanced people—these, who see clearly and are not in doubt, the few rare people who know what is right and who are by that knowledge guided, to their own great help and no loss to that of all with whom they may be associated."

Scientists and the Bacilli.
A capital story is being told of a scientific man who is known all over the world for his researches into bacteria. The other day at an afternoon party he was given by his hostess some of the first strawberries of the year, and it was noticed that before he ate them he dipped each strawberry most carefully into a tumbler of water. His hostess asked him why he did this, and he replied that it was on account of the microbes, of which there are about two millions on each fruit. After he had eaten half a dozen strawberries he felt thirsty, and without thinking what he was doing he drank the water in which he had been washing the fruit. His hostess tried to stop him, but it was too late. "Oh, doctor," she exclaimed, "you have swallowed 12,000,000 microbes!" "Good heavens, so I have," said the scientist, and then added philosophically, after a pause: "Well, after all, it does not matter much."

Marse Henry's Monopoly.
When Louis Brownlow, now a Washington correspondent, was a reporter on the Louisville Courier-Journal, he was sitting at the telephone table in the local room one night waiting for a call.

The office dictionary is kept on that table. Brownlow was turning the leaves idly when Marse Henry Watterston came along.

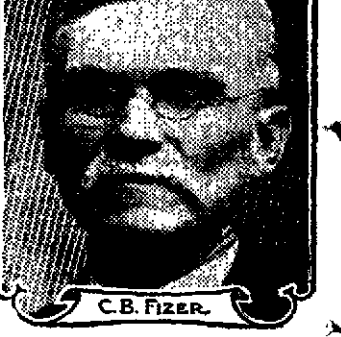

Marse Henry does not see very well. He made out a figure at the table and said: "Who's that?" "Brownlow, Mr. Watterston."

"What are you doing, Brownlow?" "I'm reading the dictionary."

"Well, skip the adjectives, skip the adjectives, for I'm the only one on this paper who can use them."—Saturday Evening Post.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Suffered Two Years—Relieved in Three Months.

MR. C. B. FIZER, Mt. Sterling, Ky., writes:

"I have suffered with kidney and other trouble for ten years past."

"Last March I commenced using Peruna and continued for three months. I have not used it since, nor have I felt a pain."

"I believe that I am well and I therefore give my highest commendation to the curative qualities of Peruna."

Peruna For Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Geo. H. Simmer, Grant, Ontario, Can., writes:

"I had not been well for about four years. I had kidney trouble, and, in fact, felt badly nearly all the time."

"This summer I got so very bad I thought I would try Peruna, so I wrote to you and began at once to take Peruna and Manalin."

"I took only two bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin, and now I feel better than I have for some time."

"I feel that Peruna and Manalin cured me and made a different woman of me altogether. I bless the day I picked up the little book and read of your Peruna."

It is the business of the kidneys to remove from the blood all poisonous materials. They must be active all the time, else the system suffers. They are times when they need a little assistance.

Peruna is exactly the sort of a remedy. It has saved many people from disaster by rendering the kidneys service at a time when they were not able to bear their own burdens.
